

My family and I rely on the FM translator service of K-LOVE in Alaska.

We are tied to the nation and the larger listening community by this service. We thrive on the music and news whether in summer or through the long winters with little light.

If this translator service is displaced by different LPFM programming we will lose our encouraging connection to the lower 48 states and the accompanying music that resonates in the house and car.

The service of K-LOVE is a vital part of our children's lives, our lives as parents, and as a source of encouraging music to any who join our home. We regularly look forward to listening to K-Love even when we're traveling for business or pleasure in continental U.S. states.

Thank you for considering our comments and the vital connection that FM translator service provides to our Alaskan community.
